

SHOTGUN CRACKS SHOW TOMORROW

Notable Performers for Analoastan Shoot.

EVERY ONE A CHAMPION

Heer, Marshall, Heikes, Stevens, and
"Our Frank" Butler Will Break Targets.

The Analoastan Gun Club will give a complimentary shoot to the crack squad of expert trap shooters tomorrow, beginning at 1 p. m., on its grounds opposite the car barn on Tenleytown road.

All friends of the club are requested to attend, as this will be an opportunity to see some of the most expert handlers of the shot gun perform.

The members of this squad hold world-wide reputations in their particular line. W. H. Heer in a three days' tournament at Des Moines, Iowa, broke the world's record by scoring 367 straight, and a total of 495 out of a possible 500, or 99 per cent. Anyone familiar with the sport will appreciate what this means, as a good shoot is usually satisfied with 85 to 90 per cent for one day's work.

Very Much Mayor.

T. A. Marshall, who has been mayor of Keithsburg, Ill., for several years, and has to leave town to keep the boys from making a continual performance of the mayoralty business, is a two-time winner of the Grand American Handicap, the greatest shooting event in this country. He was captain of the All-American team that defeated all the cracks of England, Ireland and Scotland, allowing its competitors the use of both barrels, while confining itself to the use of one. He is a fluent speaker and the talks of Captain Tom are both instructive and amusing.

Rollo Heikes, "The Daddy of Them All," has had a long and successful career as an exponent of the scatter gun. He has probably won more matches and holds more records than any other man in the shooting business. He is a genial individual who is never more at home than when helping the inexperienced shooter, and it is a pleasure to receive instructions and advice from him.

College Expert.

H. H. Stevens is a comparatively young man at the business, but he is a "natural born shooter." During his college days at Rutgers the shotgun was very much in evidence. While partial to all outdoor sports, shooting was the one par excellence for him. How well he has succeeded in his position in the shooting world shows.

Frank E. Butler, better known as "Our Frank," is perhaps the best known shooter in the country. His early days were spent in the West, where a man's guns were a part of his stock in trade. Rifle shooting was his forte, but since the disappearance of large game he has taken to the shotgun. He has the peculiar distinction of having hunted and shot in fourteen different countries, giving exhibitions in Great Britain, France, Germany, and other European countries, as well as over the entire United States. Frank is always ready to answer questions relating to the art, and his reminiscences are worth hearing.

The management of the Gun Club extends an invitation to those not members to attend the shoot and meet these experts.

WHITNEY RETURNS TO VISIT FRIENDS

Old Washington Athlete Won Honors in England and Carried Off
Thespians' Cup.

H. S. Whitney, the old Washington athlete, who has been in theatrical business for several years as a bass singer, is again in town interviewing his old friends.

Mr. Whitney was well known when here as a sprinter, bearing the colors of the Washington Y. M. C. A. In those colors he won a number of races in Washington, Baltimore and other cities, and was considered a dangerous man at any of the short distances.

Last year he was in London with the "Prince of Pilsen" company and won the Thespians' Championship Cup in this country. He has probably won more matches and holds more records than any other man in the shooting business. He is a genial individual who is never more at home than when helping the inexperienced shooter, and it is a pleasure to receive instructions and advice from him.

Washington Prep School Will Compete in Annual Pennsylvania Carnival at Franklin Field.

For the first time in its history the Army and Navy Prep School, of this city, will be represented in the annual relay carnival under the auspices of the University of Pennsylvania at Franklin Field on April 23.

During the past two years the local institution has made long strides in track athletics and this season under the direction of ex-Champion Wefers, a strong team has been developed.

The team will be classed with the runners from the Blight, Melrose, Chestnut Hill, and Brooks High Schools, Yeates Military Institute and the Pennsylvania Institution for the Deaf. The Army and Navy team will be Baker, Thompson, Caperton, Allen, Davis, and Gilla.

The Young Wales want to arrange games with teams averaging ten to eleven years. Line-up: M. Noone, catcher; L. Langan, pitcher; C. Bousigner; first base; T. McCormick, second base; J. McGinnis, third base; J. Gallagher, shortstop; E. Bousigner, left field; H. Shriver, right field; W. Slack, center field; J. Moran, water boy. Challenges to M. Noone, 2406 I street northwest.

TO SUSPEND OUTLAW BASKETBALL TEAMS

BROOKLYN, April 8.—Officials of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States have announced that hereafter they will follow up the pastime of basketball and suspend every team in the country that plays with unregistered or suspended players or any five having suspended or unregistered players in their line-up. John Stell, chairman of the registration committee of the A. A. U., announced that not even the big varsity teams would be exempt in the future, and it looks like a big fight between the Intercollegiate Basketball Association and the ruling athletic body of the country.

Washington Relay Teams Transferred

George Washington and Gallaudet Have Been Classed Together at Pennsylvania Carnival.

Some changes have been made in the class in which George Washington University and Gallaudet College, of this city, will run at the University of Pennsylvania's relay carnival on April 23. Villanova and Franklin and Marshall have been transferred to other classes and George Washington, Gallaudet, Western University of Pennsylvania, Western Reserve College, Westminster College, and Temple College will make up a separate class.

Captain Stevens, of Gallaudet College, has his squad, which is an unusually large one for Gallaudet, down to hard work and a fair estimate of the strength of this year's relay team may now be made.

Altogether the prospects for a team of last year's speed are rather discouraging. Robertson, of last year's team, will undoubtedly run in his old form, barring accidents. When he gained his first experience on the track he did the quarter in time that Mather alone could beat, and in the relay at Franklin Field, the first match race of his experience, he ran the second lap and gave his team its first lead.

The veteran Erd, who ran the first lap for Gallaudet's victorious teams of 1903 and 1904, hurt his ankle while training Tuesday, and even if it heals soon it is doubtful if he can get into condition in time for the Franklin Field meet. Captain Stevens has been under the weather of late and is not showing his old-time form, but he is expected to round into shape before the date of the relay carnival, which has for years been the main feature of the mutes' track season.

For the fourth place on the relay team, made vacant by the graduation of the speedy Mather, there are such a lot of evenly-matched youngsters as no track squad in the history of the college has had. From these Captain Stevens hoped to develop such a phenom as Robertson proved last year. But he has been disappointed. While half a dozen men are improving at a rate that augurs well for the relay teams of the next three years, none of them has been able to jump into the class of the veterans at the outset as Robertson did.

Kutzleb, last year's substitute, shows marked improvement in speed, but his staying powers need development. Messner, a new man, on the track, has an even chance with him for the coveted place. Earl Maher, a younger brother of last year's captain, is another likely man. He has his brother's great, even stride, but lacks his stamina and game-ness. McCandless, Joyce, Tomlinson and Horton, also new men, are developing rapidly. At present the sprints and quarter-mile are the only distance at which the men are being tried. All of these new men except Horton, are freshmen, and because none of the schools from whence they come train runners they are having their first experience here.

In this an outsider can see one of the difficulties which beset the track captains at Gallaudet. Gallaudet never had a track coach or trainer of a training table, nor has she them now. All that the men know of the sport they have picked up or have had handed down by their predecessors. Two years ago a Georgetown runner, meeting the Gallaudet athletes on a train bound to Philadelphia, where both were to run in the relay carnival, inquired the name of Gallaudet's coach. On being told that they had none the G. U. man told them they might as well turn around and go back to Kendall Green. But the mutes won and won again the next year, besides gaining some valuable experience.

Nearly all the State institutions from which the Gallaudet students are gathered have baseball teams of more or less merit, and because one difficulty in the way of getting a baseball team together is eliminated. But, like the track squad, the baseball team has neither coach nor trainer.

Four of the regulars of this year's team and one of the pitchers are freshmen. Though the opening games have resulted disastrously for the Mutes, they will undoubtedly improve, as the season advances. The loss of Matzner, the little catcher, who was the star of every game until he broke his leg in the Villanova game, was a great blow to the team. Gallaudet has always had difficulty in securing a good backstop and Matzner, the best he had ever had, inspired great confidence in the team. He was a hard and willing worker, a great thrower, and the team had no better hitter or base runner. His injury necessitated a shifting in three infield positions, and the team is not yet settled down from the shake-up. Considering all these handicaps, of the Mutes, not to mention that of their lack of training, and the fact that there are only sixty students to support the team and from which to draw material, it must be admitted that Gallaudet has done wonders in keeping in her present class.

Sunday at 2 p. m. on its home grounds, South Capitol and P streets southwest, the St. Vincent baseball team will meet the crack St. Paul's. Manager and Captain Joe Turner has been busy the last month hunting players, and says with Barry in the box and Moffitt at the receiving end, he has a championship team of eighteen-year-old players. Address challenges to 60 N street southeast.

The Crescent Juniors desire games with any team in the District averaging fourteen years. Address Crescents, 1245 H street northeast.

RIVAL BASKETBALL TEAMS DISAGREE

Little Chance of Carroll-
Corcoran Series.

TROUBLE OVER THE RULES

Guardsmen Want Militia Code, While
Institute Insists Upon A. A. U.
Regulations.

With the basketball season practically at a close there seems to be little or no chance of a match game or series between the two best teams—the Washington-Corcoran Cadets and Carroll Institute.

Both teams express their willingness to play if certain conditions are accepted, but it is over these conditions that all the trouble hangs.

As soon as the institute and cadet quints had distanced all other competitors in the local field, there was a popular demand for a meeting to decide once and for all the supremacy.

Neutral Grounds.

Shortly after the revision of the National Guard schedule Capt. E. C. Edwards, the Corcoran manager, wrote to Dr. Kelly, Carroll's coach, suggesting a series under any conditions that would be mutually agreed upon. In his answer Dr. Kelly informed Captain Edwards that Carroll Institute was ready upon condition that the game be played on neutral fields, that the officials be connected with neither organization, and that the rules of the Amateur Athletic Union govern all contests.

In their reply the Corcorans express their satisfaction to the first two clauses, but insisted upon the National Guard rules be used in one of the games, the A. A. U. code in one, and in the third game one set of rules in the first half and the other in the second half.

Row Over Rules.

To this Carroll would not agree, advancing the argument that as both organizations were members of the union, the A. A. U. rules should be used to govern all games of the series.

The Corcorans objected on the grounds that they had been playing according to the militia rules all season, and it would be asking too much to have them throw aside all their rules for a code with which they are practically unacquainted.

Here the matter rests, and unless one side is willing to give way, local basketball devotees have a slim chance of seeing Washington's most representative teams clash.

THREE DUAL MEETS FOR TIGERS' TEAM

PRINCETON, N. J., April 8.—The schedule of the Princeton track team has been announced. Three dual meets have been arranged—one with Columbia, one with Yale, and one with Cornell. Of these only the meet with Yale will be held at Princeton. The schedule follows:

April 15, ninth annual interscholastic games at Princeton; April 19, Caledonian games at Princeton; April 22, University of Pennsylvania relay races, at Philadelphia; May 6, dual meet with Cornell, at Ithaca; May 13, dual meet with Yale, at Princeton; May 30, dual meet with Columbia, at New York; May 26 and 27, intercollegiate meet at Franklin Field, Philadelphia.

The Georgetown Second Junior Preps defeated the Duponts yesterday in an exciting ten-inning game. Mulvaney, the star Georgetown Prep pitcher, struck out six men and made eleven assists. Captain Sitterling played a pretty game in the field, and made several hits. Humphrey pitched an excellent game for the Duponts, striking out eleven men.

When the game ended the score was 6 to 5 in favor of the Preps. The Preps want games with uniformed teams from fourteen to sixteen years of age. Address Manager Junior Preps, Georgetown College. The Preps' line-up was as follows: V. Blandin, center field; Giffin, catcher; Gross, shortstop; Sitterling, right field; Collins, third base; Hayes, first base; Larralde, second base; Andoya, left field; Mulvaney, pitcher.
